JAMES BERKISE TO SPEAK AT 1pm, SEPT 7, 2014: HISTORIC HUDSON RIVER FERRY OPERATIONS AT GOMEZ MILL HOUSE

James Berkise, local historian and Marlborough resident, will share findings from his recent investigations into a long-running ferry operated by Gomez Mill House residents Wolvert and William Ecker, and a turnpike extending from that ferry dock over the Marlborough Mountain to the village of Plattekill.

Berkise received his Bachelor's in Engineering from RPI, and his Master's in Library Science from Pratt Institute. For over 34 years, he worked as a professional researcher and corporate librarian supporting scientific research at such prestigious institutions as AT&T Bell Labs, NEC Research Institute, and National Economic Research Associates- a Marsh & McLennan subsidiary.

Since his childhood in Pennsylvania's Wyoming Valley where he observed the mining of coal that the D&H canal carried to the Hudson near here, James has been interested in waterway transportation: its infrastructure; how it evolved; and how it shaped the development of communities. His interest in Ecker's ferry comes from a 1998 book, When Horses Walked on Water by Art Cohn of the Lake Champlain Maritime Museum, in which a map shows a horse powered ferry coming out of Wappinger Creek near New Hamburg, NY. Berkise initiated his research by searching for the west shore landing in Marlborough.

Gomez Mill House resident Wolvert Ecker operated the original ferry service at this location until 1799, and his son William continued it until his own death in 1827. In 1830, other local businessmen bought it creating the Hampton-Hamburg Ferry Company. And Gomez Mill House resident Wm Henry Armstrong's younger brothers, D. Maitland and Gouverneur were shareholders in that company in the late 1860s.
